BERGLAND PAYS AREA A SHORT VISIT

MOVING? Please use form inside paper and give full information. Making list to run on Friday for following week.

We had a call from Carl Stenson of Dallas, a long-time friend who heads up the USDA's new office there, and he informed us that Ag Secy. Bob Bergland would be at DFW airport for about half an hour between planes and invited us along with other news types to visit him. We had never had the chance to meet him before so we went to the news conference.

We only got in a couple of questions. We wanted to know if the recent conferences between USDA and EPA officials in Texas with farmers, ranchers and Extension Service people was a new approach. We wondered if regulators like USDA people in FDA and those in EPA, etc., planned to confer with people actually involved in the industry being regulated and would be consulted before the regulators start "shootin' from the hip" before they really understand the problems. Bergland's New Policy Aimed at Getting Facts Before New Regulations Are Set, Industry In-Put Prevents Mistakes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Last Wednesday at brief news conference at DFW Airport Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland confirmed that the recent visit to Texas by Dr. Perry J. Adkinson, Jr., Robert Collier and Stephen J. Jellison, top officials of USDA and EPA, was the start of a new policy under which people in industries affected by USDA and EPA regulations would be consulted before new regulatory rules were announced or put in place. Bergland said information on the impact and economic effect of new regulations would be explored with producers and that the aim was to prevent some of the problems created by "earlier mistakes" caused by lack of understanding of industry and the workload to them.

College Station - Key officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency made a two-day tour of Texas recently to consult with dozens of farmers and ranchers and seek their opinions regarding a number of programs and regulations. (CONT. ON PAGE 6)

Meat Board Cites New Scientific Challenge to MIT Nitrite Study

Chicago - A recent study by Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientists linking sodium nitrite with cancer in rats was "inconclusive, open to misinterpretation and might even be erroneous," a spokesman for the Pork Industry Group of the National Live Stock & Meat Board said today.

Mark W. Thomas, Meat Board Vice President and Secretary of the Pork Industry Group, noted that a new report by a team of Iowa State University researchers calls into question several aspects of the study. The MIT research, conducted under contract for the Food and Drug Administration, forms the basis for plans by the FDA and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture to "phase out" the use of sodium nitrite in processed meats. The agencies are required by law to take action in regard to substances found to be carcinogenic in experimental animals.

Thomas stated that the Iowa State review raises specific and pertinent questions as to whether the MIT study actually did show nitrite itself to be carcinogenic in rats.

"This should be clarified through additional research before any regulatory actions are put into motion, especially since no previous research has been able to produce carcinogens related to nitrite itself," the Meat Board executive stated. He said recent work in Canada did not indicate a cancer risk from bacon containing nitrite compared (CONT. ON PAGE 11)

Specifically, the Washington decision makers sought information from the agricultural producers on the integrated pest management program, the use of the herbicide, 2,4,5-T, in brush control systems for mesquite-covered rangeland, the livestock predator situation and the use of compound 1080 (sodium monofluoroacetate) for coyote control, and other conservation practices.

Dr. Perry L. Adkisson, vice president for agriculture and renewable resources of Immokalee, Breakfast and Lunch will be served at the sale. Auctioneer will be Gerald Bowie, Fred Barfield or Travis Wise, P. O. Box 356, Immokalee, Fla. 33934, 818/657-3611 or The Cattle Marketing Group, Inc., 8500 Village Drive, 8500 Building, Suite 105, San Antonio, Texas 78217, 512/656-2076.

sources, organized the tour and Pest Management Conference to acquaint the USDA and EPA program officials with Texas producers, and to provide a vehicle for producers and decision makers to share common concerns and discuss program results.

"It is our responsibility to keep this Washington decision makers, producers, and consumers well informed about issues vital to food and fiber production. The tour and conference gave the Washington-based group an opportunity to study and observe the real world problems, and to visit with many farmers and ranchers. As a result of the dialogue and discussions, decisions which must be made by USDA and EPA can be more objective and less subject to the pressures of emotionalism," Adkisson said.

The two leaders of the Washington delegation, Dr. Rupert Cutler, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, and Steven Jellinek, Assistant Administrator for Toxic Substances with the Environmental Protection Agency, agreed with Adkisson.

"We came to look and listen," Cutler emphasized.

Cutler, who is in charge of Conservation, Research and Education, supervises the Science and Education Administration, (SEA), the Soil Conservation Service, the Forest Service and is director for the Department's Commodity Credit Corporation.

"Secretary Bergland is interested in preserving and protecting the family farm. The integrated pest management program — and the ECONOCOT cotton production system developed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for the Trans-Pecos area — clearly fits in with the Secretary's objectives. The bottom line for that program is, through management of all systems," Cutler added.

His observations made on the Texas trip were "very helpful," Cutler emphasized, as they will aid in justifying future budget recommendations for research, Extension and environmental programs.

Jellinek also expressed appreciation for the opportunity to "get out into the fields and on ranches to talk with producers about their concerns."

The EPA, he added, is now in the process of studying and evaluating the comment on the use of the herbicide 2,4,5-T.

Jellinek indicated that "no hazard has been proved as yet."

He indicated that a study made by two Harvard scientists in 1975, showing very minute traces of dioxin, highly toxic low-level contaminants, nursing mothers continues to be studied by other members of the scientific community.

Toxic animals also have been used to monitor the effect of the dioxin (TCDD, 2,3,7,8-tetrachlorodibenzo-p-dioxin) and Jellinek emphasized that the question is whether the deleterious effects produced at high levels in test animals indicate risk of much lower levels of exposure in humans, and whether the benefits outweigh the possible risks.

But Cutler and Jellinek indicated that EPA is concerned with minimizing the cost for farmers and ranchers of brush and weed control — and in some cases livestock production — with the feeling human health. They are seeking first-hand knowledge of the problems encountered by farmers and ranchers and to discuss with them problems involved in the use of certain pesticides.

"The USDA will recommend the continued usage of 2,4,5-T if it is shown to be the only alternative for economic and if there is sufficient evidence of human safety," Cutler said. "If the herbicide application is restricted to a safe distance from waterways and homes, it is safe."

Officials of the Texas and Southern Cattle Raisers Association, the Texas Association of Cotton Producers, Organization, Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, the Texas Sheep Producers Board, Texas Pest Management Association, and other producer organizations shared their opinions and ideas with the USDA and EPA officials.

Agricultural producers told the visitors from Washington that the economic and historical benefits of the chemical 2,4,5-T when used according to instructions, cannot be disputed.

Few agricultural chemicals have a longer record of safe use than 2,4,5-T for mesquite control, they said.

While there is no evidence that 2,4,5-T itself is poisonous to humans or other animals when used according to the label, commercial formulations, however, contain trace amounts of the contaminant dioxin TCDD. Research shows that TCDD dissipated rapidly in the environment, usually within 48 hours, and does not accumulate in natural systems or the food chain.

Officials of the Texas A&M University System Agricultural Experiment Station emphasized that domestic production of 2,4,5-T may be accomplished with an extremely low TCDD content — .001 to 0.03 ppm — and are encouraging continued efforts by manufacturers to reduce the TCDD content. They recommended the establishment of a "no detectable level" for TCDD in 2,4,5-T.

The A&M agricultural officials also emphasized that 2,4,5-T is applied at 8 to 10-year intervals for range improvement, and for many cases its application rates are reduced by 50 percent when it is applied in combination with other herbicides such as dicamba or picloram.

They emphasized there is no effective herbicide currently available that can be used to replace 2,4,5-T in integrated brush control work. The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service support the continued safe and effective use of 2,4,5-T in integrated brush management systems.

Beefmaster Brochure Available at BBU Annual Convention

Beefmaster Breeders Universal will give members at the 18th Annual Convention in Dallas, November 1, with the "Beefmaster Cowman," the association's new brochure. The brochure supported magazine carries four-color advertising, editorials which depict history and growth of the breed, performance and research, BBU programs, practical experience by commercial cattlemen from arid South Texas regions to the sub-tropics of Florida, and more.

Twenty-five thousand copies will be printed and distributed over the next two to three years to members, inquirers, at field days, sales, and stock shows. The brochure, the second of its kind in three years, will double the size of the 1975 publication.

Beefmaster Breeders Universal will be presenting a check for $1,000 to one of its five satellite associations at the South Texas Directs.

Fort Worth Show Premium Lists Are Being Mailed

Premium Lists for the 83rd annual Southwestern Exposition and Fort Stock Show, Jan. 24 through Feb. 4, are being mailed this week to more than 5,000 potential exhibitors, reports W. R. Watt, Jr., President-Manager of this nation's oldest continuing livestock show.

Awards for large animals will total $100,000, small stock $3,100, horses $55,000, and junior show over $15,000, plus a number of special prizes, making an excess of $200,000 for the livestock show and another $130,000 for equestrian who enter the accompanying edition of the World's Original Indoor Rodeo.

"This year's Premium List includes a number of additional show classes, as well as new times and rules," Watt said. "Exhibitors are urged to read the books carefully to avoid errors on entry forms."

He said entry deadlines for cattle, horses, sheep, swine, donkeys and mules will be Dec. 10, and rabbit, poultry and pigeon exhibitors will have until Jan. 15 to enter.

Foremost among the changes will be in the junior show, Watt reported. "Our junior show has experienced enormous growth in recent years, and the new times will allow a better presentation schedule for the youngsters as well as cut down on the time they will be required to be at the show," he said.

Simmental heifers will be a new classification this year along with the other breeds that have shown to the junior beef breeding heifer show in past years. Arrival time for junior heifers is Wednesday, Jan. 24.

The junior steer show has been moved to the second half of the show and steers will arrive Tuesday, Jan. 30. Southern steers are added to classes with other British, American and European crossbreeds in this division.

The Sale of Champions of the junior show has been moved to 10 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 3, in Sale Barn 6. All champion steers, lambs and barrows will be sold at that time.

"We believe that by combining and holding these junior sales on Saturday they will be more appealing to prospective buyers," Watt said, and added that "all bidders are welcome to this and other sales at the Stock Show."

In the breeding sheep division, both open and junior class judging will parallel each other to help exhibitors and better utilize pen space. The junior lamb show is scheduled Friday, Feb. 2.

Devon breeding cattle and the National Pinpointer Show join with other traditional breeds showing here in open contests. There are also classes for beef carcass judging. A number of horse show classes have changed, too.

English and French varieties of rabbits are included in a new Lop Rabbit Club class, and Chempagne D'Argent rabbits will show under their new name of Creme D'Argent. Interest continues for strong pigeon and poultry shows, also, with assurance of a good turnout of quality birds.

The Intercollegiate most judging contest will be held at Gosh Packing Co. in Abilene. Other judging contests for college, 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America will be staged similar to past years.

Cattle sales scheduled include auctions for Shorthorn, Polled Hereford, Angus, Longhorn, Charolais, Simmental and Phlegauer. After the usual auction of commercial Hereford females will be an offering of selected Hereford bulls. Sales will also be conducted for Potomac and Quarter Horses and Mules and Donkeys. All sales will be conducted on the show grounds.

Premium livestock entry information is available at the show office, 8400 Crestline Rd., or by writing the Stock Show at P. O. Box 150, Fort Worth.

According to the Iowa State evaluation, the MIT study does not specifically state that nitrite caused cancer of the lymph system in the rats. "The term 'lymphoma' is used in the report to describe all lymph tumors without differentiating between benign and malignant."

The Iowa researchers concluded: "Benefits of nitrite usage (anti-botulism effects and others) must be balanced against whatever risks are determined to be present in the final analysis."

The evolution of the MIT study at Iowa State was conducted in response to a request from Representative Charles Grassley (R-Iowa) in accordance with the USDA-FDA statement of August 11 calling for "external scientific scrutiny."

The Iowa State group was headed up by Dr. Joseph G. Schrank of the Department of Animal Science and Food Technology.

Hides & Offal

Des Moines, Oct. 5 (USDA) — The value of hide and offal from the average 1,000 pound slaughter steer for the week ending October 6, 1978, was estimated as $4.52 per 100 pound live weight compared with $3.87 the previous week.

After years of genetic research, cattle experts have found Brangus calves to be the most profitable breed combination for stocker/feeders.

Because of their 3/8 Brahman-5/8 Angus heritage, Brangus calves are hardy, adaptable to climatic extremes, and are pest and disease resistant. At the same time, they gain quickly and efficiently on feed or forage, and weigh 75 to 100 lbs. heavier than English breeds.

Brangus feeders lay down internal fat early, finish early, and are ready for slaughter at preferred weights with maximum red meat and minimum excess fat. This problem-free performance plus high demand at the marketplace make Brangus stockers/feeders the animals cattlemen can depend on for maximum profit on the bottom line.

Brangus feeders are preferred by packers and consumers alike, because they give the most pounds of meat at the lowest possible cost, and bring top prices at the stockyard and in the supermarket.

Hardy! Adaptable! Profitable! BRANGUS! The stocker/feeder you've been waiting for.

Clements Sets Up Farmers, Ranchers Election Committee

Gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements today announced the appointment of Fred Wulff of Brady and Jay Amerson of Eagle Lake and East Bernard as co-chairmen of Farmers and Ranchers for Clements.

Wulff, a rancher in McMillen County, is past president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association and is a member of the School Land Board of Texas.

Anderson is a milo, rice and soybean grower and an agribusinessman in Colorado County. He is a charter director of American Rice Inc. and is an advisory director of the Bank for Cooperative in Houston. He is president and owner of Prairie Commodities Inc. and is a director of Rice Belt Warehouse Inc. in El Campo. He is a past member of the National Rice Advisory Committee.

"I'm convinced that Bill Clements has a much better understanding of the problems of my neighbors and friends, people who are the farmers and ranchers of Texas. Bill has faced many of the same problems experienced by farmers and ranchers in starting a business," Amerson said.

Wulff said, "As a rancher himself, Bill knows the problems of rising costs, declining markets and regulations limiting the effective marketing of our products. Bill Clements is a fiscal conservative."

Other members of Farmers and Ranchers for Clements include: Senator Rob Price, Pampa; John Matthews, Abilene; C. J. Holloway, Athens; Sid Weiser, Lampasas; Jack Garrett, Danbury; Bob Cluck, Gruver; Val Lehman, Kingsville; J. G. Phillips, Jr., West Columbia; Robin Armstrong, Armstrong; Dale Dorn, San Antonio; E. K. Johnson, LaPrere; Glynn E. Alexander, Trinidad; Zack Fisher, Memphis; J. H. Clement, Kingsville; David Britt, Wheeler; James Whittenburg, Amarillo; Jim Campbell, Pampa; Billy B. Davis, Pampa; Eldon Dudley, Perryton; Gene Whitehead, Monard; B. F. Phillips, Lewistown; Mrs. Charles Tandy, Rogers; R. J. "Red" Nunley, Sabin; Bruce Smith, Athens; A. C. Mechemel, Bellville.

BILL CLEMENTS WILL CUT TAXES AND GOVERNMENT SPENDING

Texas was built by men with the vision to look ahead and the grit to get things done. Bill Clements is the man to keep this tradition alive for the future of Texas.

Bill Clements will bring a strong, fresh and tough approach to our government in Austin. He is a businessman, not a politician.

Bill Clements started with nothing and built a successful, worldwide company with hard work and the skill to manage men and money. And now Bill Clements wants to preserve the future of our state and he wants the working people of Texas to have the same opportunities he had.

With his proposed "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights," Bill Clements is committed to protecting Texans from excessive taxation and runaway government spending. He is pledged to cutting taxes and returning that money directly to the taxpayers.

As former Chairman of the Southern Methodist University Board of Governors, Bill Clements knows how to make education in Texas the best in the Nation. He's for discipline in the classroom and "back to basics" quality education.

As the son and grandson of farmers, Bill Clements knows the frustrations that an indifferent government can cause people who make their living off the land. He will use the strength of the State Government to fight burdensome Federal restrictions.

story in Columns 4 & 5).
Hergland says yes, they plan to consult with industry people in the future and avoid some of the "earlier mistakes". This sure ought to be a blessing and can save USDA and its various branches some embarrassment. We also wanted to know if USDA had any plans to help farmers and ranchers improve their marketing power, since they seem to be low once on the sitcom pole and by the time they get their products trickled down to the producer level there ain't much left. Hergland says no, they don't have any plans along that line since laws are already in place to permit them to organize co-ops and marketing associations.

Hergland also pointed out that corn farmers, who are in the midst of a bumper crop, are to blame for their problems, since they ignored the set-aside program and pointed out that current farm law has hoisted income 25% this year over last, and increased exports, market development and compliance with act-side programs were the solution to surpluses.

It was easy to understand why people in USDA like Dr. Donald Kennedy and Carol Furrer Foreman and the late lamented Dr. Angelotti have been able to take the hit in their teeth and try to ram their ideas down the throats of the rest of us. Hergland comes across as a very mild man and not the type who would be inclined to jerk the slack out of a rambunctious employee. He is also highly consumer oriented, a facet of his nature which was revealed when these siljecke were brought up by the daily newspaper and radio & TV people present. You could almost feel the fervor as he described what the new free food stamp program would do for the poor & aged.

One of the interesting things came in Hergland's answers about the cotton dust problem. He said this dust control, which was making all manner of headlines in recent weeks, was at least two or three years away. The machinery ain't even been invented, much less built, yet. Hergland said the Carter Administration was in general agreement with his proposed new runner cyclone dust import proposal. The only drawback is that Carter still wants to be able to manipulate meat imports, at his whim. Carter don't want to have his hands tied.

Hergland has one of the toughest jobs in Government as head of USDA. Our impression was that he needs to understand a good working Marine drill officer and jerk some of his employees down off their soap boxes and tell 'em where to head in at.

Ever think, The Edlitar.
P. S. Uncle Dunk fingers after resili'n' the details of the new Tax Bill the Senate is workin' on the EPA sure ought to crack down on that body. That hot air snog would smother a cockroach. Can you imagine how much of that $164 Billion tax cut will ever take place since it depends on reduction of federal spending? Dunk says them free commercials some of the radio & TV stations are runnin' tellin' the wonders of air bags and automatic restraints in autos ought to entitle the rest of us uncontracted rebels to equal time. Top Breeder Speaks At Brahman Clinic

Ward Merriek III will be one of the featured speakers at Brahman Clinic V in Houston, Texas, Nov. 8-11. Merriek, owner of Merriek Farms, Ardmore, Oklahoma, will talk on the marketing of purchased cattle of the national Brahman clinic.

Ward Merriek III is recognized as one of the best merchandisers of seedstock cattle in the United States. In 1977, Merriek Farms sold over $1,000,000 worth of breeding cattle and is well on the way to doing it again this year. Merriek's operation is involved in the production of Simmental cattle but his marketing philosophy has been used successfully with other breeds.

He is currently experimenting with Simmental-Brahman crosses and is enthusiastic about the potential of the cross.

Merriek is the president of the Oklahoma Simmental Association, on the board of directors of the American Simmental Association, and involved in many other organizations in and out of the cattle business. The surprising thing about all these accomplishments is the fact that Ward Merriek III is 26 years old. He has an extensive background in the cattle business that includes an Agricultural Economic degree from Oklahoma State University. He was a representative for the Simmental Breed for three years before

TEXAS RED ANGUS NEWS

Texas Expects To Have Large Delegation At ARAA Convention

Rowena, Texas — Clifford Halfmann, president of Texas Red Angus Assn., said a large delegation of TRA members is expected to attend the Silver Anniversary Convention, Show and Sale of the Red Angus Association of America in San Francisco, Nov. 1 through Nov. 4.

"I believe lots of Texas Red Angus members will go to the convention because of proposed by-law changes which will affect Texas," Halfmann said. One of those by-law proposals would cut the number of ARAA regions in Texas down from two regions to one, and thus reduce Texas' representation on the national board to one member.

"Too, there are going to be several Texas cattle companies in the 25th Anniversary National show including a bull being taken by Tim Beuer, Winnie, and five head to be taken by TFA, Jun for members Bobby and Berry Nunn of Rogers, and Mark Miller of Josine,

Texas Red Angus Elects Officers, Begins Bull Test

Coriscano — The Texas Red Angus Association re-elected Clifford Halfmann, Rowena, as president for another one-year term, and re-elected the other officers, along with three new directors, in a meeting held in conjunction with the beginning of the Association's bull test at Navarro College here Sept. 22 and 23.

There are 25 bulls in the group now undergoing a 21-day warm-up before official beginning of the test. TRA directors and officers plan to meet at the test site at 8 p.m., Dec. 2, to check results of the test to that point, and plan a Red Angus performance tested bull and female sale to be held soon after the test is completed.

Lou Hartman, Nevada, was re-elected vice president; and Dennis Hoffmann, Miles, secretary-treasurer. New directors elected to the board are Everett Swint, Texas; C. J. Rollins, Garland; and Elvino Lem, Duncanville. Hold-over directors are E. T. Goodman, Dallas; Dennis Hoffmann; Clark McKelvey, Justin; Tim Bauer, Winnie; Leon Ocranil, Grapevine; and Joe Morgan, Webster.

Red Angus Booth At Dallas Fair

Dallas — Clark McKelvey, Justin, and other members of Texas Red Angus Association are manning an attractive Red Angus display booth at the State Fair of Texas here that runs through next week.

McKelvey has a cow-calf pair, and another breeder has a bull in the display, said Clifford Halfmann, Rowena, president of TRA.

Ronald Reagan To Keynote Red Angus Convention Nov. 1

Denton — Red Angus Association of America members will "kickoff" their Twenty-fifth Annual Meeting in San Francisco on November 1, 1978, with the movie "American Revolution" about Ronald Reagan.

Reagan will keynote the Silver Anniversary Event at the Annual membership luncheon, which this year will be open to the public. Red Angus breeders from across the United States will serve as hosts to the beef industry.

Reagan was born in Illinois, and earned his college degree in economics at Eureka College there. Then he became a radio sportscaster in Iowa, first in Davenport, then in Des Moines. One year, when he went to California to cover the Chicago Cubs' spring training, he ended up taking a career test that launched him on a new career that included 55 feature-length films. Later, he became host of television's "General Electric Theater" and "Death Valley Days".

He was also a horse racing observer.

New Swine Pre-Mixes Are Announced
A new swine pre-mix has been developed by VIT-A-WAY, Inc., which complies with recommendations of the National Research Council and leading university swine specialists, according to Dr. Troy Brasner, one of VIT-A-WAY's nutritionists.

Swine Fort-Mix, with Selenium, was developed for feed manufacturers and feed mill operators who prefer to add their own salt. Swine Fort-Mix Plus S and Fort-Mix are designed to fill the need for those in the swine industry who have requested a single, yet complete, mineral vitamin package to carry their animals through a feeding program. The Plus S pre-mix contains Selenium.

Both pre-mixes are well fortified with vitamins A, D3, E, K and B complex in sufficient quantities to provide essential nutrition for continuous growth and development.
